National Tooth Fairy Day

August 22nd

Did you know that children in Europe, Russia, some parts of Asia (especially China), North America and other places all have certain traditions that revolve around the idea of a tooth fairy!

The tradition usually goes that a child who loses a tooth can leave it under his or her pillow that night. This special creature, knows when a child has lost a tooth, and will exchange it for a coin or a treat during the night. Some traditions assign this role to a small animal, such as a mouse, rabbit, cat or dog, while other cultures may tend to associate it more with a mythical creature resembling Tinkerbell.

If it's been awhile since a visit to the dentist, this day could serve as an excellent reminder that it's time for a cleaning and checkup! Call your dentist to set up an appointment—they will be very happy for the reminder and will thank the Tooth Fairy for his/her special services!
